

WALLBUILDERS

Jonathan Richie is a presenter and the lead researcher for WallBuilders, a national pro-family organization that teaches America's forgotten history and heroes, with an emphasis on our religious, moral, and constitutional heritage.

WallBuilders is a name taken from the Old Testament story of Nehemiah, who led a grassroots movement to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem and restore its strength and honor. In the same way, WallBuilders seeks to energize people to become involved in strengthening their communities, states, and nation. WallBuilders has been nationally recognized for its work in education, history, law, and public policy, integrating the elements of Biblical faith and morality throughout all aspects of American life and culture.

Jonathan has worked for WallBuilders since 2017 and specializes in American apologetics and building a foundation of patriotism in the younger generations. He graduated Summa Cum Laude from Houston Baptist University with a degree in Classics, earned a Masters in history from Liberty University, and has presented to a wide variety of audiences ranging from academic summits, State Boards of Education, schools, and churches. Currently he is working towards the completion of a Doctorate in History with a focus on Early America.

Jonathan and his wife, Cait, married in 2019. They currently live in Fort Worth, Texas.
